West Berliners Prepare for Cold War Siege

Their Officials Spurn Russian Proposal on Change of Status

BERLIN (AP) — West Berliners dug in today for a six-month cold war siege. Their officials spurned the Soviet proposal to drive the Western Allies back beyond the Iron Curtain by converting West Berlin into a demilitarized "free city."

West Berliners clearly saw the next six months as a period of uncertainty.

A shopgirl gave a typical reaction: "I'm afraid that if the Allies leave the Communist people's police would come marching in one day. If the Big Four turn West Berlin into a free city, I'll start looking for a job in West Germany. Yes, the exodus to West Germany would start immediately."

"We in West Berlin say no," Mayor Willy Brandt declared in a radio and television broadcast after an emergency meeting of his Cabinet to study Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposals. All West Berlin parties, newspapers and ordinary citizens seemed to back him up.

The 44-year-old Socialist mayor, appealing for the support of the Western world, promised that West Berlin's 2,200,000 citizens would not panic as the six months proposed by Khrushchev for negotiations run out.

The Western powers withheld their final word on the Soviet proposals, but the preliminary reaction indicated they would turn thumbs down.

The U.S. State Department said the United States would never agree to anything that would mean abandonment of the people of West Berlin to hostile domination.

The British government also served notice it intends to stay in West Berlin.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said he was sure the Western Allies would "reject every suggestion that aims at making Berlin defenseless and endangering its freedom."

Adenauer and French Premier Charles de Gaulle had already announced Wednesday that the West's promises to maintain the occupation must be kept.

West German Socialist leader Erich Gellert said Adenauer's chief opposition, assured West Berliners that his party also stands firmly behind them.

Ike, Defense Chiefs Tackle Arms Budget

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) President Eisenhower and the nation's defense chiefs today tackled the problem of how many billion dollars to allot for military might at a time the President is seeking to cut federal spending.

Scheduled to confer with the President at this vacation office at the Augusta National Golf Club are Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy, Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Gordon Gray, presidential aide on national security affairs.

Also flying from Washington are Budget Director Maurice H. Stans and Donald A. Quarles, deputy secretary of defense.

Out of the conference may come a final decision on how much to earmark for military spending in the fiscal year starting July 1. Eisenhower's budget for that year will go to Congress early in January.

The administration is estimating defense outlay in the current year will run about $40,800,000,000, slightly more than half of calculated over-all federal expenditures — $79,200,000,000. A deficit of about $12,200,000,000 is anticipated.

There is no doubt about the armed forces seeking more money for next year.

Girl, 7, Is Killed By Shotgun Blast

Lucindy Marlene Paxson, 7 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Paxson of RD 4, Salem, died instantly this morning as the result of a shotgun wound inflicted by her step-brother, Larry Upole, aged 8. The girl was pronounced dead on arrival at the Salem Central Clinic. Dr. William Kolozsi, acting county coroner, is investigating. Lucindy, her sister, Terrill Lee, 4, and Larry had just finished breakfast at about 8:15 a.m. when the accident occurred. Larry is reported to have picked up a shotgun which had been sitting in a corner of the kitchen and as he did so the gun went off. The blast struck Lucindy in the face.

The gun was owned by an older step-brother, Willis Upole, 15. Police said that he thought he had unloaded the gun the last time he had gone hunting.

The girl's body is at Stark Memorial Funeral Home pending arrangements for the funeral.

Program May Be Abandoned Here

Blood Donors Needed For Last Visit Dec. 15

Salem area citizens have only one more chance to insure the continuance here of the Red Cross Blood program, whereby blood and blood derivatives are furnished without charge to patients who suffering from illnesses or injuries, need blood replacement.

The Cleveland Regional Bloodmobile will make its last visit of the year here Dec. 15 at the Methodist Church. The hours will be from noon to 6 p.m. instead of the usual 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., so that volunteers, who were unable to make appointments previously because of conflicting working hours, may now have an opportunity to become donors.

At least 180 volunteers must be registered in order to insure the goal of 125 pints of blood. If this quota is not reached during this collection, the program here will be canceled. Red Cross officials explain. The expense of bringing the unit here and of processing the blood is too great for a lesser number, authorities point out.

Miss Hazel Linn, executive director of the local Red Cross Chapter, is hopeful that the goal will be surpassed Dec. 15 as it was when the unit collected 158 pints in October in response to an urgent plea for donors.

Mrs. Harold Wykoff, recruitment chairman, said that donors may call the Red Cross office for transportation to and from the church, and that the Jaycee-Ettes will provide a baby-sitting service at the church for mothers who wish to give blood. Mrs. Paul Warvel will be in charge.

Mrs. Albert Hanna will head the Red Cross staff of canteen workers, who will serve refreshments to the donors and workers.

Darlington, Pa., School Looted

Vandals Get $4,000 In Food, Equipment

EAST PALESTINE — Burglars escaped with approximately $4,000 worth of school supplies and cafeteria food stuffs from the North-western joint school at Darlington, Pa., early Thursday morning.

Investigations show the burglars used a heavy wrench to gain entrance into the building. The vandals broke 27 locks and smashed eight cabinets.

Included in the loss were three manual typewriters, two electric typewriters, an adding machine, a folding machine, movie projector, an electric coffee maker, 23 cans of coffee, four hams and an undetermined quantity of cheese.

State Police from the Rocky River Barracks, Beaver County detectives and Darlington Township authorities are investigating.

County Crews Spread Ashes, Salt on Roads

LISBON — About 15 trucks were dispatched this morning by the County Highway Department to salt and ash roads made slippery by the season's first heavy snowfall. John Neill Jr., department superintendent, reported today.

Neill said plows would be sent out of the snow became deep enough later in the day.

U.S., Allies Map Strategy for Diplomatic Fight

Rejection of Soviets' 'Free City' Proposal Expected Next Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and its allies began mapping strategy today for a long diplomatic battle against the Soviet Union's "free city" campaign to oust them from West Berlin.

The State Department gave stern notice Thursday night that the U.S. government does not intend to "enter into any agreement with the Soviet Union which, whatever the form, would have the end result of abandoning the people of West Berlin to hostile domination."

Promised Careful Study
The statement promised careful study of the Soviet proposal to convert West Berlin into a free city protected by some kind of United Nations watchdog operation. It also promised consultations with Britain, France and West Germany as well as the rest of the NATO Allies.

But officials said privately today that while the statement did not specifically and immediately reject the Soviet proposition, there was no doubt that in the long run, probably late next month, it would be turned down.

Some Western counterproposal calling for a solution of the Berlin problem as part of an all-German settlement may be put forth at the same time.

Delay in Reply Seen
Indications were that the consultations will reach a climax at a meeting of foreign ministers of the 15 North Atlantic Allies in Paris Dec. 15. Officials predicted the Western powers would delay until then their reply to notes sent them Thursday by the Soviet government.

Reaction from European capitals concerned paralleled that in Washington: The "free city" formula offered by Khrushchev is but a device to get the Western powers to withdraw from Berlin, and is therefore unacceptable.

The United States statement said, "The Soviets seem to be proposing that while they keep their grip on East Berlin, the three Western Allies abandon their rights in West Berlin and retire in favor of what is called a 'free city.'"

Limited To West Berlin
The statement noted that the "free city" would be limited to West Berlin. It also emphasized that unless the Western nations accept the Soviet proposal within six months, the Soviet Union proposes singlehandedly to abandon its position as an occupation power including its obligations to help the Western Big Three preserve their status in West Berlin.

"The United States will not accept this," the statement said.

Youth Surrenders In Cleveland Murder

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Cleveland man arranged the surrender of his son to police over the Thanksgiving holiday in connection with the slaying last week of Edward G. Cerner, 46-year-old East Side businessman.

The youth, Carl Rawls, 22, was the third person taken into custody in the slaying. His father, Willie, who had known Detective Harry Davidson for 20 years, contacted Davidson and drove the detective to Louisville, Ky., where Carl Rawls surrendered.

The detective said Thursday that on the return trip the youth told him Pfc. Leon T. Curry, 21, engineered the robbery and struck the blows that killed Cerner.

Curry, the first to be arrested, has told police a third youth, Charles Harris, 19, struck Cerner with a plank during the robbery. Davidson said the younger Rawls admitted being with the other two.

Man Trapped In Elevator Shaft Two Days Freed

NEW YORK (AP) — Today was Thanksgiving Day for Stanley Heiducki.

He spent the regular one at the bottom of an elevator shaft. In fact, he said, he had spent two days there and, worse still, hadn't eaten for eight days.

The 38-year-old man could not give a coherent explanation of how he got into the elevator shaft in downtown Manhattan.

Two employees arriving for work at a restaurant next door late Thursday night kept hearing a knocking on the wall but thought it was repairmen at work.

Finally at 4 a.m. today one of them, as a joke, yelled "What do you want?"

"Get me out," came the reply. Heiducki gave no information about himself, but Beekman Downtown Hospital, where he was taken for treatment of malnutrition and exposure, said he had been treated there Tuesday for a dislocated shoulder.

Gerald Jensen Is Victim In One-Car Mishap

Was Passenger In Auto which Veered From Pine Lake Rd.

Gerald Jensen, 16, of 1028 Jennings Ave. was killed Thursday evening when a car in which he was riding ran off the Pine Lake Road between the Egypt and the Greenford Roads.

A junior at Salem Senior High School, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jensen.

State highway patrolmen, who investigated, said Ronald Fred Ackerman, 16, of 943 W. State St., the driver, lost control of the car which went off the right side of the road into a ditch and crashed into a farm lane culvert.

The exact time of the accident is not known, patrolmen said. An ambulance was called at 8 p.m. according to reports the patrol received the boys had been in Washingtonville at 7:30.

Jensen was pronounced dead on arrival at Salem City Hospital. He suffered a crushed chest and fractured skull.

Highway patrolmen said the accident occurred midway down the steep hill at that point. The victim, sitting next to the driver, was thrown against the steering wheel and windshield.

The front end of the car was caved in. It did not overturn, patrolmen said.

Ackerman was admitted to Salem City Hospital, suffering from severe shock, lacerations of the scalp and upper lip, and bruises of the body. He is reported to be in fairly good condition today.

The other passenger, Ronald Shoop, 17, of 335 W. 9th St. was treated at City Hospital for abrasions of the forehead, upper lip, right hand and legs.

Funeral To Be Monday
Born Feb. 10, 1942, in Salem, Gerald Jensen was the son of Henry and Margaret Fults Jensen.

He is survived by his parents; three sisters, Marjorie, Joyce and Nancy, all at home; four brothers, Larry at home, Thomas of Salem, James of Columbiana and Fred of Hollywood, Calif., and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Fults of Salem.

He was a member of the Methodist Church and a junior at Salem High.

Funeral services will be held on Monday at 2 p.m. at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home. The Rev. William Snowball will officiate. Burial will be in Grandview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Boy, 3, Hurt When He Falls from Car

In a second accident investigated by the state patrol on Thanksgiving Day, Robert Day, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Day of RD 2, Salem, fell out of a car driven by his aunt, Dorothy Reed, of 744 E. Lincoln Way, Minerva, on Route 30 near East Rochester.

The child was admitted to Salem City Hospital with a possible concussion, severe scalp laceration, and bruises and abrasions of the entire body.

He is reported to be in fairly good condition today at the hospital.

Heavy Snow Warning Is Issued for Ohio

By The Associated Press
Most Ohioans got their holiday trimming one day late as snow began falling over the entire state early today.

The weather bureau posted heavy snow warnings for all of the state and reported that between four and six inches would blanket Ohio before the snow changed to light flurries late tonight or Saturday.

A few northern counties had a light covering on Thanksgiving Day, but the greatest accumulation was reported at Cincinnati where three inches had fallen by 7 a.m. today.

With temperatures expected to remain around the freezing mark today, the weather bureau warned of hazardous road conditions.

Composer Tells Success Secret

John La Montaine Kept Studying Score

WASHINGTON (AP)—A serious composer's lot is not a happy one. He works like a dog to put his notes on paper, just so, and then he may wait years before he can hear how it sounds when played by a symphony orchestra.

The writer or painter at least can look at what he has done, even if he may have to look alone. The composer—and to a degree this is true of the playwright, too—must have the help of a vast number of people before he knows for sure how well, or how horribly, he has done.

So here was John La Montaine, getting his first chance to hear his music, in a rehearsal by the National Symphony Orchestra.

You could tell he was the composer because he kept scampering down the aisle, sealing the big wall that supported the stage, and hurrying around to study, and perhaps change, some note that troubled him.

The big man at the piano, Jorge Bolet, was in shirt sleeves and slacks. He had on the loudest pair of socks ever potted on a concert pianist.

On the podium Howard Mitchell, in a muffled-up sports shirt, was conducting with frequent pauses for comments like this: "Basses, bases. All I ask for here is that you keep time, plain simple time. Let's try it once more."

Finally the practicing of La Montaine's "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra" came to a crashing end. The handful of spectators applauded. And La Montaine fell to talking about something most of us never think about: The perils of composing.

He told how he decided to give up his career as a concert pianist and stick to composing. How, at 38, he still is hanging on. "But I never would have made it if I had a wife and family to support."

How he had written "Songs of the Rose of Sharon" for soprano and orchestra. How he had tried for 10 years to get it performed. How he had almost despaired before Leontyne Price and Mitchell decided to give it a try. How it was well received both here and in New York.

How, when the Ford Foundation was putting out money to commission new works, Mitchell thought of La Montaine. How Mitchell and Bolet visited his New York apartment and were pleased with the rough draft he played on the piano.

"A terribly difficult work to play," Bolet said. "When I first heard it, I said, 'All those octaves are going to take a lot of carrots.'"

So Bolet kept stoking in the carrots. Mitchell kept studying the score, and La Montaine kept refining the work played here Tuesday night and to be played in New York's Carnegie Hall Friday night.

And how did he feel, now that he had heard his concerto?

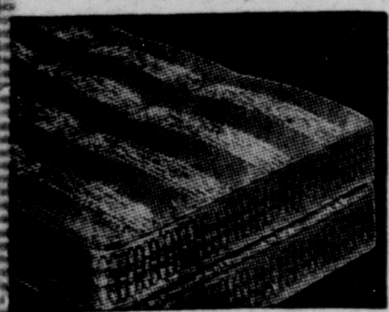

"I think it's going to turn out all right," he said. "I had it all in my mind, but sometimes I did not quite get it down. It's like a recipe. Maybe I put in too much salt."

"A great work," Bolet said reassuringly. "I can play it with conviction. When you play, you must play with conviction."

At least the world premiere—and the critics were kind. Such words as "deep feeling," "melody is clear and direct," "virile work," and "well-written" were sprinkled through the reviews.

Heart Ailment Fatal To Artur Rodzinski

BOSTON (AP) — Artur Rodzinski, one of the world's great symphony conductors—and one of the most temperamental—died Thursday night at Massachusetts General Hospital of a heart ailment.

Although references gave his age as 64, his widow, Halina, his second wife, said he was 66.

Rodzinski conducted most of the country's major orchestras, but his tenure with them often ended in stormy battles with their management.

Rodzinski's final performance was in Chicago, where 10 days ago he presented Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" with the Lyric Opera Company in a triumphant return to the podium in the city where he was abruptly dismissed 10 years ago as conductor of the Chicago Symphony.

Rodzinski was born in the small town of Spalato in Dalmatia, of Polish parents. He spent his boyhood in Lvov in southern Poland, now part of the Soviet Union. His father was a surgeon with the Russian army.

He first came to the United States in 1925 and became a naturalized citizen in 1933.

Rodzinski was playing the piano at 6 and pursued his musical career with fanatical devotion all his life.

Boy Shoots Cousin In Hunting Accident

MILLERSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Holmes County Sheriff Harry Weiss said he planned to question a 13-year-old youth today about the hunting death of the boy's 20-year-old cousin.

Weiss said the victim, Harry Amons Jr., of Holmesville was shot in the back at close range, apparently as the two were returning to a car parked on a county road.

He said the 13-year-old, Abe Miller Jr., was in a state of shock at the home of his parents in Holmesville and therefore was not questioned after the shooting Thursday. He said Amons was shot by the gun carried by Miller.

'Boss Kett' of the Curious Mind

With due respect, what Charles F. Kettering learned about mechanical engineering at Ohio State in the first years of this century would not amount to much in comparison with today's engineering courses. But he did not rely on education.

He relied on intelligence and the kind of mind that wonders why things cannot be done. We suppose that for every invention or improvement he made, he wondered about a thousand more inventions and improvements that never jelled.

Whether he had lived in an era of horse-drawn chariots, horseless carriages or space rockets, he would have squinted at them with an eye to making them run better. He happened to be hooked up with horseless carriages, so he got rid of the crank by putting on a self-starter and further refined the things by figuring out an ignition system. It will take someone just like him to make improvements on space rockets one of these days.

But no one is going to be like "Boss Kett" by reading about him in a book or going to school to study engineering. Men like Thomas A. Edison and Charles F. Kettering must be born; they can't be made by a formula. There is a secret ingredient in their makeup—a wonder-why element. Whatever they are, whatever they do, they wonder why things can't be better.

If they happen to be engineers, they may make a million. Otherwise, they may turn out to be reformers, agitators, malcontents and nonconformists and make pests of themselves. But they never are content to settle for inferiority while improvements are possible. They are the yeast of civilization. Without them, we'd still be crouching in caves and eating what we could catch with our bare hands.

Choice Between Impossible Alternative

There are times, it must be admitted, when it's as hard to feel sorry for the Western Allies in Berlin as it used to be to feel sorry for the town banker when he was hit with a snowball. What could the old boy expect when he insisted on parading past the school grounds in a hard hat with four inches of wet snow on the ground?

The Allies should not have let Russia into Berlin in the first place. They should not have consented to a ridiculous arrangement that left them at the mercy of the Kremlin. Having made such a mistake, they should have corrected it long before this. But, instead, they have left their fate up to the whims of a government whose whims are of iron.

The only way they can stay in Berlin without either war or another Berlin airlift, or its equivalent, is to negotiate with the Communist government of East Germany, which will be in full power when the troops of the Soviet Union leave. This is as hard a choice as it would be if Formosa were surrounded by the Russian navy and its beleaguered inhabitants told they would have to negotiate with the Communist Chinese for their survival.

It is typical of the hard choices the Kremlin keeps thinking up for governments it hopes to discredit by making them plead for favors from puppets. It is the same choice the Kremlin gave the United States and its allies in Korea when they had to negotiate an armistice with a puppet regime.

West Berlin always has been a hostage held by the Soviet Union. Even the famed Berlin airlift could not have been maintained 10 years ago if the Soviet Union had wanted to stop it. The iron-whimmed men in the Kremlin chose to make the Western Allies fight for their survival, in 1948 against tremendous odds. The odds are still overwhelming in 1958, because the Communists are still holding the upper hand. They have chosen to assert it.

They can call any tune they choose to call at any time that strikes their fancy. They are the kids on the playground with the town banker strolling past in a hard hat—pow! The banker should have known better.

Making Sense Out of Militarism

No presidential commission ever wore a shinier blue ribbon than the nine men lined up by the White House to study the U.S. military aid program.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, former supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Forces in Europe and President Eisenhower's protégé; Adm. Arthur W. Radford, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Gen. Joseph T. McNarey, former commander of U.S. forces in Europe—these are the military members.

John J. McCloy, former high commissioner for Germany and now president of Chase Manhattan National Bank; James E. Webb, a former director of the U.S. Budget Bureau; William H. Draper Jr., a former undersecretary of the army, ambassador to NATO and the man who will act as chairman of the commission—these are typical of the civilian members. Even the counsel for the group, Tracy Voorhees, is a former under secretary of the army.

George C. McGhee, one of the other three members, is a former assistant secretary of state. Dillon Anderson is a former presidential aide on national security. Marx Leva is a former assistant secretary of defense.

Men like these could well be going after bigger game than evaluation of the U.S. military aid program. They could be gunning for a new concept of military security to replace the current concept.

Until the United States has learned to think of security in terms other than physical encirclement of the Soviet Union, to offset the Kremlin's threat that it will try to destroy this country, military spending will be a dead weight on the U.S. economy. The attempt to carry this deadweight has kept taxes high and boomed inflation.

A blue-ribbon investigation of ways and means of making more sense of U.S. military aid could become an investigation of ways and means of making more sense of U.S. militarism. The nine outstanding citizens named by the White House to study the former may very well become the means of making more sense out of the latter.

Fire Drills at Home

The advent of winter weather has increased the dangers of fire from overheated furnaces, defective flues and other hazards which go undetected in warmer weather.

Tragedy struck the Columbiana County area twice in the past three days, fires leaving two families homeless and snuffing out the lives of two small children. In another blaze, a roadside restaurant was destroyed.

The danger of fire is ever present but at the outset of winter all heating equipment should be thoroughly checked for flaws and proper ventilation provided for gas heaters.

We know of one family that holds fire drills periodically so that, in the event of a fire, particularly at night, the children know exactly what to do to reach safety. The older children serve as captains. Preparedness like this, although it may never be needed, is an example others might follow. Fire drills are held regularly in the schools. Why not at home?

Once Over

Soviet Ambassador Menshikov when asked why golf is not played much in Russia fumbled his reply. The main reason is that you can't veto a five-putt green or solve a wrong swing by yelling "NYET!"

He says he may take up the game himself to help promote it in Soviet world. He might do well. He is a fellow who can miss both the ball and the divot and insist it is the correct way to play the game.

It might be possible to get Menshikov, Ike and Dulles in a threesome but it would not promote global peace. Russia would not trust Ike or Dulles in the woods, nor could Ike and Foster trust the Soviet golfer.

HERE'S A POSSIBLE account of three holes:

From the first tee Ike got 175 yards, Foster got 150, his grip being too tight because of the new crisis in Berlin.

Menshikov claimed a 300-yard drive before taking a club out of bag. When told this was illegal he demanded, "Why use a club in this game when I can do better with a lead pencil?"

He finally took a swing and landed in a trap. Harsh words followed the explanation that he must play the ball out of the trap instead of getting it onto the fairway through a speech.

To avoid a crisis all three comprised by agreeing they were on the green in three. Each took four putts but Menshikov claimed an "eagle" on instructions from his government.

HOLE 2. MENSHIKOV offered to settle for a birdie before addressing the ball, announcing a new Russian speed-up program which would overtake all free world progress.

Dulles' explanation of rules was called on account of approaching darkness. Ike drove his ball during the argument.

Menshikov denounced this as aggressive act. It was finally agreed to leave the score on this hole to a Geneva summit meeting.

Third Hole. All three drove balls at same time in the interest of amity. Menshikov landed the ball in the rough but insisted he had won through a homer, as he had "Put ball out of the lot." Dulles explained they were not playing baseball.

Menshikov declared this a capitalistic trick, and charged massive interference.

Ike got off a wire to McElroy saying, "Cancel plan to reduce Armed Forces. May need them here."

Dulles suggested sending for Hammarskjöld and observation patrols. At this point game was transferred to Security Council.

HIPPOPOTAMUS BROUGHT $2,450 at New York zoo sale. Shows what you can do with a hippo if you hold it for the long pull.

Garden State Parkway in Jersey has barred "learners." They interfere with all those other autoists who don't know how to drive.

Big-league ball players threaten "drastic action" if not cut in on gravy from all telecast games. Modern ballplayer is no longer just a fast man on bases, but a fast man with the financial figures. He is a businessman in uniform. He loves baseball but is also vitally interested in receipts, expenditures, net gross, etc. A player can be a good hitter and at the same time a financier who hits .300.

Journalistic Reminiscences

By Westbrook Pegler

Old reporters take nostalgic pleasure in faking reminiscences of fakes which are set forth in constantly varying versions as having occurred within their own experience or having been related to them by venerable old stewards a long time ago.

Calling on Ben Hecht for wraiths out of his memory, I caught him agape and the best he could offer was an unsubstantiated incident of the funeral of the prophet, John Alexander Dowie, of Zion City, Ill., who insisted that the earth was flat. Dowie also contended that Chicago reporters smelled of whiskey and cigarettes and thus were subhuman creatures, like Chinamen in California prior to 1890, and fell outside the moral and secular laws against homicide.

In a few affrays, Dowie and his disciples tried to make a test case, but multiple contusions, abrasions and lacerations, superficial, and charges of simple assault were the furthest they ever got. I suspect that in the instant case, Mr. Hecht, like the Supreme Court when at loss, fumbled in the crannies of an undisciplined personality and invented more than he had on authority, in which case I thank him for original matter.

MR. HECHT RELATED that one of the smelly urchins of the Fourth Estate, up from Chicago for the funeral, procured a fallen criminal lawyer, far gone in drink, to draw up and sign with Dowie's name a testament recanting the dogma that the earth was flat, confessing that he had smoked Sweet Caporals and beseeching the pardon of the outcasts who held forth in fetid lazaros in the city hall, the criminal courts and the Harrison Street police station.

The document was passed from hand to hand among the hounds of hell and, at a God-sent opportunity, an infidel agent of the press slunk into line to slip it under Dowie's head. Another zombie was planted a few spaces back in the file of mourners to pluck out this codicil and all seemed merry as a marriage bell until an officious curate of the cult independently decided that the lamentations had gone far enough and closed down the lid untimely.

I ASKED MR. HECHT who this fellow was and he replied: "Old Harry Warl, or Yarn, you remember him, the guy who rescued a peck of $20 bills from the drowning bank in the Cairo flood, sort of a fat little guy. I will never forget that diary, that girl who killed the veterinary, about 300 words, that's all. This detective was a friend of mine, we ran it two weeks, 15,000 words, sold a million papers, I got a $5 raise. How is your dad?"

The little black book, a standard drop of the standard seven-day murder in Chicago, fell into disuse by reason of inflation. When every paper has its own little black book of phone numbers with annotations of sexy import, no two alike, even the public sniffs.

E. F. Henderson, an elder statesman of Indiana journalism, recently recalled that he adorned the Crawfordsville Review with a zinc cut of an ancient wooden side-wheeler of the Cleveland and Buffalo line when the SS Titanic hit the iceberg.

"A year later," he wrote, "the big flood swept down the Wa-bash past Feru where the circus had winter quarters and, according to rumors in Crawfordsville," wild animals were seeking whom they might devour. My colleague, Ed Burns, thought we could peddle stories to metropolitan papers about a polar bear which had floated some way on a cake of ice, followed by reports, unconfirmed to be sure, of depredations near Wingate and Richmond. But after a few days we began to think about the odium which follows through life persons who get money by false pretenses, prayed for divine guidance and let the matter drop."

WHO CAN DENY ME when I relate that Booth Tarkington, coming through Neufchateau in 1917, told of giving a dinner in a gasthaus at Oberammergau on a wartime Christmas Eve and getting Anton Lang and the 12 apostles drunk? I have begun to believe it. H. L. Mencken's bathtub hoax is again in print, but Sanford Jarrell, a city-side reporter of the Herald Tribune in the '20's, has suffered oblivion for a feat as great in the same way as Edgar Allan Poe's balloon hoax. Mr. Jarrell led the paper for three days with installments about a 20,000-ton anonymous liner off Long Island catering to metropolitan madcaps intent on carnality and alcoholic indulgence. The liner had facilities for both.

James P. Sinton, city editor of the Morning Telegraph, tore it apart day by day and the H-T, far from honoring Mr. Jarrell's coup, measured him by the grubby standards of the city desk and dismissed him from our midst forever.

New Integration Law

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Local Boards Have Power to 'Place' Pupils

There's a new "law of the land" today on the integration problems of public schools. Local school boards henceforth are authorized, as a result of a Supreme Court decision, to assign pupils to whatever schools they please without revealing any reasons for their inaction.

While the case concerned an Alabama law, it applies throughout the nation wherever states now may pass "pupil assignment" laws. These statutes, however, will be held unconstitutional if they deny entry on account of race or color or are enforced as a part of a scheme of legislation that requires segregation.

The reason the "pupil assignment" law is held constitutional is because the denial or grant of the pupils' request is not based on any proved discrimination because of race or color.

This may mark a turning point in the whole controversy over integration. It could help solve the Virginia and Arkansas problems. In a sense, it is not a reversal by the Supreme Court of its historic decision of 1954 which said that classification by race was unconstitutional but it is an affirmation of the principle that wherever there is exclusion or inclusion of a pupil in a particular school, it must be based on that individual's personal qualifications.

THE ALABAMA LAW sets forth the basis on which the local school boards may act, as follows:

"In the assignment, transfer or continuance of pupils among and within the schools, or within the classroom and other facilities thereof, the following factors and the effect or results thereof shall be considered, with respect to the individual pupil, as well as other relevant matters:

"Available room and teaching capacity in the various schools; the availability of transportation facilities.

"The effect of the admission of new pupils upon established or proposed academic programs; the suitability of established curricula for particular pupils; the adequacy of the pupil's academic preparation for admission to a particular school and curriculum.

"The scholastic aptitude and relative intelligence or mental energy or ability of the pupil; the psychological qualification of the pupil for the type of teaching and association involved.

"The effect of admission of the pupil upon the academic progress of other students in a particular school or facility thereof; the effect of admission upon prevailing academic standards in a particular school; the physical effect upon the pupil of attendance at a particular school.

"The possibility or threat of friction or disorder among pupils or others; the possibility of breaches of the peace or ill will or economic retaliation within the community.

"The home environment of the pupil; the maintenance or severance of established social and psychological relationships with other pupils and with teachers; the choice and interest of the pupil, the moral conduct, health and personal standards of the pupil; the request or consent of parents or guardian and the reason assigned therefor."

THE ATTORNEYS in the lower court proceeding in behalf of the four Negro children who had made application to enter a particular school objected in vain to the portions of the above-quoted paragraph relating to "psychological qualification of the pupil for the type of teaching and association involved."

Also to the sentences referring to the "threat of friction or disorder among pupils or others" and "breaches of the peace or ill will or economic retaliation within the community," as well as to the sentence referring to "the maintenance or severance of established social and psychological relationships with other pupils and with teachers."

The Supreme Court, in its brief order affirming the judgment of the lower court, did so "upon the limited grounds on which the district court rested its decision."

But the lower federal court had said frankly that it couldn't tell what reasons had influenced the school board and that the plaintiffs had not been able to prove "that they cannot attend the schools of their choice because of their race or color."

This gives the school boards quite a loophole, and an opportunity for circumvention.

IT MEANS that in some communities in the South local school boards will order "token" integration.

In others, they will find it easy to ignore requests for transfer of certain white and colored pupils, and will act as they please about "integration."

It may be doubted whether the Supreme Court did this deliberately. Rather it found itself caught with a statute that was so broad that it permitted almost any kind of action. It, therefore, upheld the lower court which had ruled that the law is constitutional "on its face."

Certainly if the school boards cannot be held accountable for the way they handle student applications, the whole integration controversy has come to a kind of stalemate that might bring, for a time at least, a truce.

Incidentally, the record of the Little Rock School Board, disclosed in court last September, shows conclusively that, had such a law been in effect in Arkansas without any other laws that involved segregation, the board could have failed to act on the applications of certain Negro pupils along with those of certain white pupils.

There would have been no way to go behind the reasons for the "inaction" by the school board.

"Pupil assignment" laws mean slow-moving, "token" integration based on local option and the whim of local school boards.

Matter of Fact

During the American Revolution the name "cowboy" was given to some American Tories who stole from the colonists. No one knows when the term was first applied to men whose work was tending cattle. It has, however, become the popular name for men who take care of cattle, particularly on western ranches.

Watches are clocks small enough to be "worn" on the person. The very first watch was probably made in 1504 by Peter Henlein, the same Nuernberg locksmith who is given credit for the invention of the mainspring. The first watches were made of iron and were so large they had to be worn hung from the belt. Later the cases were decorated, but the watches still kept time poorly.

Mrs. Raymond Eugene Crosser

Miss Donna Rhodes Becomes Bride of Raymond E. Crosser

Miss Donna Jean Rhodes and Raymond Eugene Crosser chose Thanksgiving Day for their wedding. The double ring ceremony took place at 3:30 p.m. in the Winona Methodist Church.

The Rev. Thomas Hammerton, pastor of the Lisbon Methodist Church, officiated, with the Rev. Hubert Adey, pastor of Winona Methodist Church, assisting.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rhodes Sr. of RD 2, Salem, are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crosser of RD 1, Lisbon.

White satin bows marked the family pews. Tapers in seven-branch candelabra lighted the altar, which was banked with palms and enhanced by vases of white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Thomas Hammerton of Lisbon sang "O Promise Me," "Whither Thou Goest," "Through the Years," and "Let Us Break Bread Together." Mrs. Donald Dusenberry of Winona presided at the organ.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes gave their daughter in marriage.

The bride's ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace was worn over net and taffeta. Clusters of seed pearls outlined the bateau neckline and the cap sleeves. Three quarter length mitts and a fingertip veil of French illusion attached to an iridescent sequin and flower trimmed crown completed her attire. A white satin covered Bible was carried by the bride with her showered bouquet of white roses.

Miss Brenda Hawkins of RD 3, Salem, was maid of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Liebhart of Salem and Miss Bonnie Crosser of Lisbon.

The attendants wore identical dresses of blue nylon lace over taffeta. The shirred bodices were trimmed with rhinestones, and sashes of matching blue nylon net accented the waistlines.

The maid of honor wore a bandeau of blue sequins, while the bridesmaids' bandeaux were fashioned of iridescent sequins. All wore white nylon three-quarter length gloves.

Miss Hawkins carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations. Yellow and white pompon chrysanthemums were combined in the bridesmaids' bouquets.

The flower girl, Miss Patty Hammerton of Lisbon, was dressed in pink nylon with matching headband and gloves. She carried a showered basket of roses.

Master Jerry Hammerton of Lisbon was ring bearer.

Richard Henry Crosser was his brother's best man. Joseph Siefke of RD 4, Lisbon and Henry Siefke of Alliance ushered.

Mrs. Rhodes was attired in a charcoal blue satin brocade dress trimmed with velvet and rhinestones. Mrs. Crosser's changeable blue taffeta dress was styled with a full corded skirt. Both mothers used black accessories and wore corsages of pink roses.

The reception was held in the social room of the church. The refreshment table was covered with white silk damask. White candles in crystal holders flanked the three-tiered cake, which was encircled with ivy and decorated with a bride and bridegroom ornament and pink rosebuds. Members of the Hazel Circle of the church served.

Miss Barbara Stamp of RD 2, Salem, registered the 200 guests from Salem, Lisbon, Cleveland, Greenford, Youngstown, Maple Heights and Winona.

The bride is a 1957 graduate of Salem High School. Her husband, who was graduated from Lisbon High School in 1953, attended Wooster College for two years. He is now serving with the Army stationed at Aberdeen, Md.

For traveling to Washington, D.C., the honeymoon destination, the bride wore a sheath dress of red flannel with gray coat and black accessories. After the wedding trip, the bride will reside temporarily with her parents.

The rehearsal dinner was held last Saturday evening at the home of the bridegroom's parents. The with crystal necklaces, while the bridegroom's gifts to his attendants were monogrammed cuff links.

Concert Association Members To See Dance Team Sunday

Bambi Linn and Rod Alexander, a dance team, will appear Sunday in Salem Junior High School Auditorium for the second seasonal program of the Northern Columbiana County Community Concert Association.

Stars of television's Ed Sullivan Show, the Steve Allen show and the Arthur Murray dance party, Miss Linn and Mr. Alexander are on their first concert tour. They are visiting almost 100 cities at the head of a company of 16 performers in a program, "Minstrel Days to Swingtime," in which they review American dance patterns of many decades.

There will be dance memories of many American regions, New England, the Appalachians, the Plains, the West, an appropriate dash of New Orleans jazz, souvenirs of vaudeville's heyday and recollections of the "Roaring Twenties."

Miss Linn and Mr. Alexander also will offer their impressions of such dance teams as Vernon and Irene Castle, Marilyn Miller and Jack Donahue and Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers.

Bambi was born in Brooklyn and has been famous since she made her Broadway debut as the winsome little ballerina in the original Broadway production of "Oklahoma."

She moved on to stardom as the Little Girl in "Carousel" in New York and London, appeared in "Sally" and as Alice in "Alice in Wonderland," and turned up with the leading role in the Broadway musical "Great to Be Alive."

Rod Alexander, Colorado-born began his career with the Jack

Cole dancers. He appeared in the Beatrice Lillie revue, "Inside U.S.A." and several other shows before being cast with Bambi in "Great to Be Alive" in 1950. They were married April 2, 1950 in New York.

The Dance Jubilee is not all dance, there is a chorus singing the melodies of each era with costumes representing each of the periods in history.

James S. Campbell of RD 4, Salem is enroute to Argentina, South America, to visit with his nephew, Frank Rittman. He is making the trip on a freighter and expects to return home by plane. He boarded the ship in New York after a visit there with another nephew, Bill Rittman.

Local Girl Scouts Selected To Attend National Roundup

Eight Senior Girl Scouts and their alternates have been chosen by the selections committee of the Girl Scout Council to represent Salem at the National Girl Scout Roundup to be held in Colorado Springs, Colo. in July. This contingent will make up one patrol of girls.

The girls selected are Karen Smith, Sally Snyder, Sally Shears, Dianne Tomkinson, Judy Schuller, Sydney Johnson, Ila Jean Davis, and Dinne Altomare. The alternates are Marilyn Stratton, Carol Townsend, Barbara Bricker and Haile Goard.

Mrs. Amil Cosma and Mrs. F. S. Barckhoff Jr., co-chairman of the Roundup Committee, and Mrs. Hyman Chentow served on the selections committee.

Girl Scouts from all over the United States and Girl Guides from several foreign countries will meet at the encampment. There will be 8,000 girls and 1,500 adults at the session. Girls attending the Roundup must be able to live comfortably in a primitive camp setting and work easily as a member of a roundup patrol and troop. In addition, they will be expected to share other program skills before, during and after the Roundup.

The basis for the selection of the girls who will attend the Roundup were camping skills such as basic fire-building, trail blazing, and a knowledge of knots and lashing.

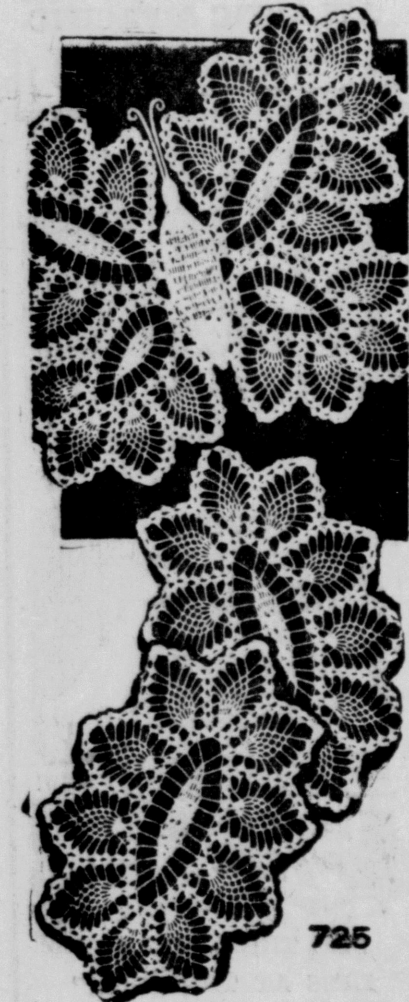

Other requirements were participation in the scouting program of hospital aid work, first aid, child care, camp aid work with the younger scouts, and camping experiences and leadership within their troop.

Each girl had to receive the endorsement of the leaders under whom she served as a camp aid and the endorsement of her troop leader.

The local council will make every effort to cover the traveling expenses of the girls selected and the cost of their stay in Colorado. The parents will be responsible for the doctors' fees and the necessary equipment and clothing.

There is no place in the budget of the Scout Council to meet the cost of sending the girls to the Roundup as the funds allotted to the Council are just sufficient to meet the basic needs of the organization. The finance committee, with Mrs. James Gregg as chairman, will attempt to meet the cost through several fund raising projects that will be announced in the near future.

Traffic

giving holiday is not as heavy as on other holidays such as Christmas, New Year's, Memorial Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day.

The National Safety Council does not make a preholiday estimate of the traffic toll for Thanksgiving. However, it estimated 470 traffic deaths could be expected for a comparable four-day non-holiday weekend at this time of year.

In a survey by The Associated Press, covering a 102-hour weekend period from 6 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 12, to midnight Sunday, Nov. 16, the count was 394 deaths, 32 in fires and 121 from miscellaneous accidents a total of 547.

The all-time record high in traffic deaths for a four-day holiday was 707 in the Christmas weekend of 1956. The overall record for the same period also was set with deaths in fires and miscellaneous accidents boosting the 1956 Christmas total to 884.

West Berlin

quiesce in a unilateral repudiation of that kind, the U.S. statement said.

Reds Submit Proposal at Geneva Parley

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet bloc offered today to negotiate an elaborate international inspection system to prevent surprise attack provided the West agreed to other disarmament measures.

Jiri Hajek of Czechoslovakia, speaking on behalf of the five Communist nations, put the offer before the 10-nation East-West conference on ways of preventing surprise attack.

A communique announcing the Communist proposal did not specify what other disarmament measures the Communists demanded.

It said Hajek submitted a proposal "for the establishment of ground observer posts and aerial inspection, and simultaneous realization of certain measures in the realm of disarmament to reduce the danger of surprise attack."

It was the second proposal put before the 19-day-old conference by the Soviet bloc, which is represented by delegates from the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Romania and Albania. The other Red proposal sought to prohibit flights of nuclear-armed aircraft over foreign countries or over the open sea, a move obviously aimed at the U.S. Strategic Air Command's constant readiness flights.

The Western delegations refused even to discuss the first proposal, contending it was political in nature and therefore outside the province of a conference that the West considers was called only to discuss the technicalities of prevention of surprise attacks.

It seemed likely the Western delegations would refuse to discuss the Communist disarmament proposals, whatever they were. The Western delegations have refused to discuss disarmament at this conference, contending it is another political question for which the technical conference was not called.

It was clear that the West was still determined not to let the conference turn into the kind of general disarmament discussion which has continued fruitlessly within the United Nations for 12 years.

POTTERS ARE IDLED

EAST LIVERPOOL — About half of the 500 employees of the Taylor, Smith and Taylor Co. Pottery at Chester, W. Va., were idled this morning by the spreading effect of a walkout of 20 to 25 clay shop finishers that started Tuesday, a company spokesman reported.

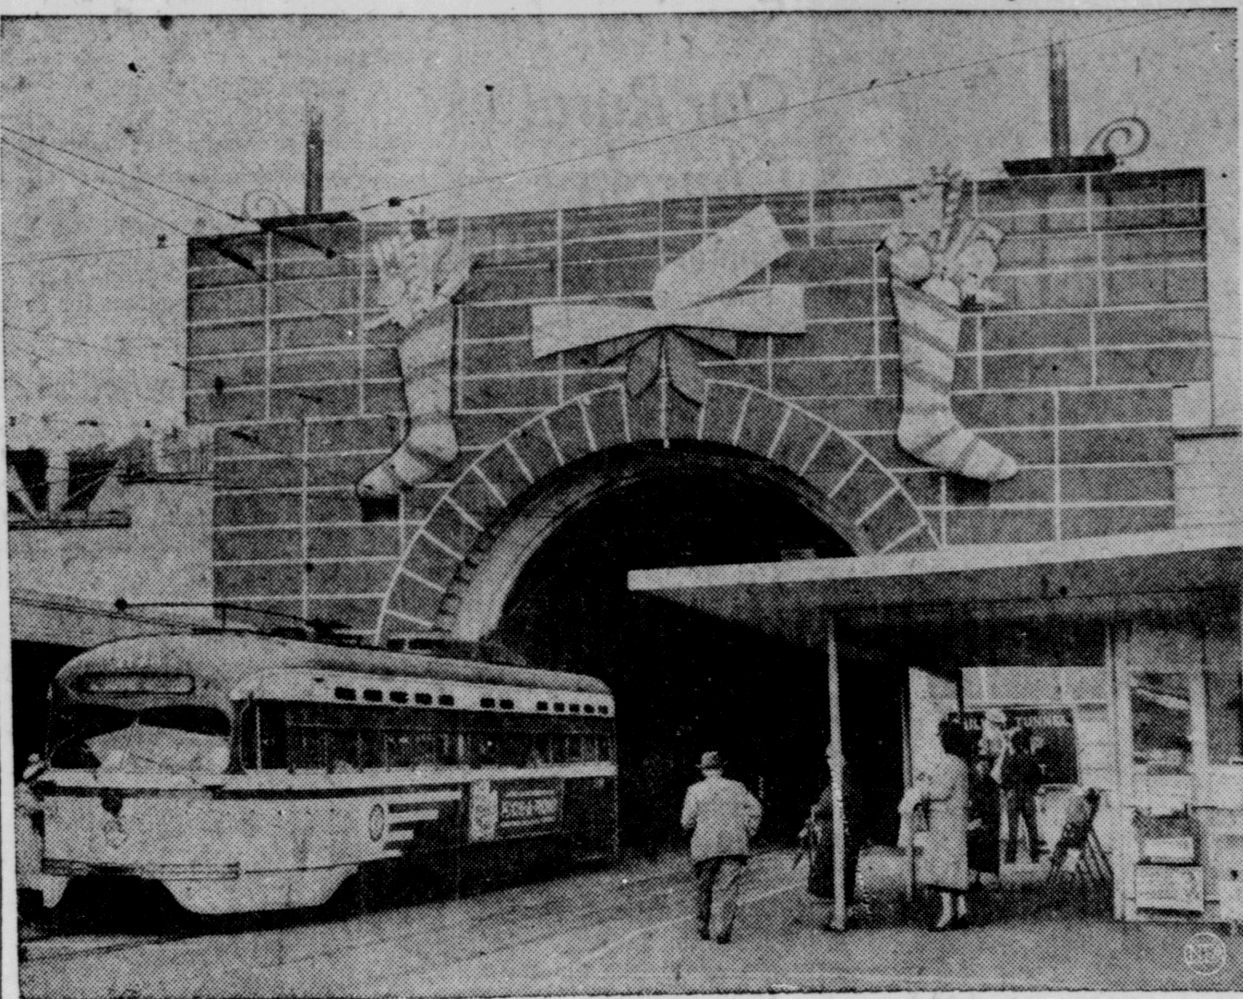

The firm said there has been no change in the stoppage, which it has termed an "illegal walkout" reportedly. The walkout originated in a dispute over piecework prices on a new line of ware.

Hays Raps Soviets' Proposal on Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Three U.S. congressmen declared today the United States should use "whatever means are necessary" to keep Berlin out of Communist hands.

"The one thing they respect is force," Rep. Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) told a news conference in West Berlin's City Hall.

Hays' colleagues, Rep. Isidore Dollinger (D-NY) and Rep. Frank Smith (D-Miss), nodded agreement. They said Hays—who acted as spokesman at the conference—expressed their beliefs.

Hays rejected Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal to turn West Berlin into a demilitarized "free city."

"It's an obvious device to trap somebody," Hays said. "How can a city exist as a free city, surrounded by 15 or 20 Soviet divisions?"

The congressmen, accompanied by Rep. Karl LeCompte (R-Iowa), flew into isolated West Berlin today from London. LeCompte did not attend the news conference because he was meeting with Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), who flew here Thursday from Geneva. All came to help convince West Berliners that the United States has not forgotten them.

Hays, a member of the House Foreign Relations Committee, is convinced, he said, that Congress will unanimously back any strong program designed to support the people of West Berlin.

Airline Seeks Injunction Against Pilots

By The Associated Press

A federal court hearing in New York City today may decide whether a third major airline will be struck, adding to labor difficulties which have grounded hundreds of planes.

Operations by Eastern and Trans World Airlines have been halted since Monday by strikes involving about 35,000 flight engineers and mechanics.

American Airlines will ask Judge Frederick van Pelt Bryan to extend a temporary injunction against a strike by its 1,500 pilots. The Air Line Pilots Assn. seeks higher wages, a shorter work schedule and other rule changes.

Eastern Air Lines awaits the outcome of its no-strike plea against its flight engineers scheduled to come up today before Federal Judge E. C. Choate in Miami, Fla. Even if an injunction is granted, however, Eastern will be unable to operate until a mechanics dispute is settled.

Meanwhile, nonstruck airlines have been filling the gap in air transportation, but not without some delays and confusion. Putting every available aircraft into service Wednesday, these lines handled the holiday crush. Trains and buses were jammed too.

But Thursday there was the usual mid-holiday lull, with most carriers reporting little crowding. When vacationists start returning home this weekend, however, the transportation problem will become complex again.

The flight engineers struck Eastern Air Lines in a dispute involving engineer training on jets, plus a wage demand package. The International Assn. of Machinists also seeks wage boosts and rule changes.

The IAM walked out at TWA in a deadlock over wage demands. A new mediation effort will be made in Kansas City today to bring both sides together.

A third strike, by stewards and stewardesses of Lake Central Airlines in the Midwest, has delayed but not halted operations. The dispute involves wage demands.

Election Board to Let Beaver Ballot Contract

The board asked the new balloting after voters turned down a similar proposition at the Nov. 4 election. Enactment of the proposition would clear the way for the district to receive $326,000 in state aid for a building program.

THE LOAD

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Behind the rash of airline strikes is a case of jet-age jitters — a contagious fever which will shoot tempers up and pickets out in a score of industries. Actually the airline walkouts are the first of a long series of strikes in which the unions want to beat the "new machine" before it beats them. And the airlines are in the middle.

The crews, those striking and those still flying the old-fashioned piston planes, are uneasy. Over at Pan American, for example, the globe girding company now is flying its three jets with 19 executives—chief pilots, assistant chiefs and chief check pilots.

TO GET THESE men, Pan American has had to pull them out of the top echelons of its three divisions — Pacific, South American and trans-Atlantic.

These 19 flying executives soon will have to add a fourth jet run — and they will handle six routes by the year's end.

If these 19 men should each inherit a million and hand up their licenses, Pan Am would have to ground its jets.

The hundreds of other pilots won't accept training until they get a new wage scale set or working conditions for handling the big 5-million-dollar jets.

Some of them, a few senior men who will be the first to get the jet runs once they are trained for it, are bidding for as much as $45,000 a year under such a new wage scale.

This would compare with $23,000 to $24,000 earned now by pilots of the big traditional planes.

The pilots argue that the jets are four times as powerful as the regular craft and it takes 7 1/2 hours to complete a regular 12-hour run. This means loss of jobs for those away down on the list.

The big trans-Atlantic craft now carry four pilots and two flight engineers. The jets, hurtling four times more powerfully, would need only three pilots and one flight engineer.

THE COMPANY realizes that this fear is justified, pointing out that it had to lay off 200 pilots and 100 flight engineers this fall. There will be more going when the jets streak over all runs.

Pore over the demands of other striking unions — such as Al

Hayes' International Assn. of machinists.

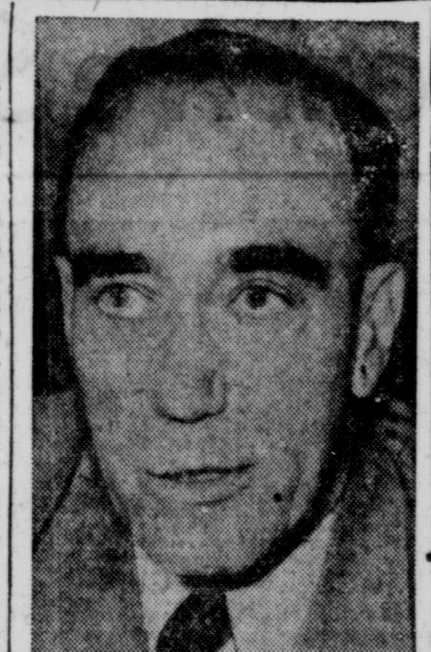

It had not struck an airline for 10 years until the recent rash. You find that these mechanics have the jet jitters, too.

When such outfits as Trans World Airlines, which has always had fine relations with its people, are completely jet adjusted they'll have to economize. So because the jets will need less frequent servicing, you find that along with the demand for higher pay, there is the demand for severance pay.

In the recent Capital settlement, for example, it was agreed that after eight years' mechanic would get $1,000 severance pay.

Among those who have the jet jitters are the 2,300 members of the Flight Engineers Union.

A PRESIDENTIAL board, headed by the always judicially erudite David Cole, has ruled that the flight engineers' Eastern Airlines should take jet pilot training. They've continued to refuse because they fear that once they

Life's Too Short

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—David Niven resents life. Not the weary length of it, but the brevity of it.

"I want to live another 150 years," he said. "I want to go on and on, doing what I'm doing. I can't visualize myself retiring and sitting in a little house by the seashore watching seagulls."

"I resent deeply the fact I can't read all the books I want to, know all the people I like all the places," he said.

As debonair in real life as he is on the screen, Niven believes in meeting the problems of living with a mixture of granite and quicksilver.

The handsome Scottish-born actor, after a harum-scarum, impetuous youth, settled down to become one of Hollywood's most durable players of light comedy roles.

After 6 1/2 years of service in the British army during World War II (he emerged a colonel), he quickly resumed his star status. He was one of the first Hollywood figures to venture into television, despite a film mogul's stern warning.

"If you do, you'll never work in my studio again."

"That's all right," Niven assured him. "I haven't worked in it for the last 10 years anyway."

Since then he has been busier than ever. As vice president of the Four Star Playhouse, he has helped supervise the production of nearly 1,200 TV dramas. He makes a dozen or so TV appearances a year, acts in two or three films.

In his latest, "Separate Tables," he portrays a lonely, seedy, scandal-haunted major, a role his fans may find somewhat surprising.

"I try to look for something different every time," Niven said. "My theory is that if you are lucky enough to make a good living acting, it's better to keep working than to sit around a year waiting for the perfect script."

"You learn something every day you work."

War left a stamp on his thinking, as it does on all who spend much time in it. This is his personal philosophy:

"I think we all eventually evolve our own faith. I am convinced that heaven and hell are right where we are now—on this earth. Life is an enormous Grand National Steeplechase. We are given certain hurdles to get over, and certain opportunities. And if you don't spot the opportunities, you miss them."

"It really doesn't matter who is the winner; it's getting around the course that counts."

"Life is like having a garden full of lovely flowers. If we don't look after them, a horrible little weed comes up and blows a seed of unhappiness into the garden, and some foul weed springs up and ruins the whole thing."

Niven right now seems like a man up to his chin in rhododendrons.

have to double as pilots, they'll be absorbed by the 17,500-member Airline Pilots Assn.

The pilots, however, deny this is airborne imperialism. They point out that the new jet pilot faces weird hazards — and old ones, too, like "Asia stomach."

This ailment has forced pilots on global flights from their cockpits. Thus, in a jet, the pilot's union says, this would leave the plane unmanned with just one person at the controls.

To the old illnesses, add temporary deafness. This may result from recurrent landings at airports from which other high decibel jets take off. Pilots have been known to go deaf for 24 hours after such experience.

Since every jet needs a minimum of two men at the controls, the pilots' union says it's a must to have the flight engineer trained to handle the craft.

There is a type of night blindness, for example, which sets in after a while at 35,000 feet. The third man must be handy.

But the flight engineer, worried by his future, won't take pilot training on most lines — putting the companies right in the middle. Small wonder everybody's got the jet jitters.

Horse Racing Opens Boom In Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tropical Park officials beamed happily today over prospects of a banner season after the biggest opening day Florida horse racing ever had.

While the Thanksgiving Day crowd of 17,617 was 245 less than the record set on the corresponding day in 1952, the bettors shoved $953,760 through the pari-mutuel windows.

That shattered the record of $877,480 set on Nov. 27, 1957, and gave Tropical Park its best opening day since the track began operations in 1932.

The $12,000 Hurricane Handicap was run in two divisions, with 13 horses in each. Bettors had a field day from the first race when Puzzle Palace paid $128.40 for $2 through the ninth which went to Fairmont at $51.40.

Hoop Band, a son of Kentucky Derby winner Hoop Jr., set a new track record for five and a half furlongs in the first division of the feature. With Jockey Howard Grant making up most of his 126 pound impost, Hoop Band ran the distance in 1:02 3-5 to break the record of 1:03 set by Viking Victory on Jan. 16, 1957.

Only noses separated Hoop Band from Flight History and Kentucky Pride, who was third.

Hasty Hoes Farms' Arcandy, an Irish-bred, won his fourth straight in the second division of the Hurricane, running the distance in 1:03 2-5. General Riley was second, beaten a nose, and Charlie's Song third.

Rangers Drop Game To Boston Bruins

By The Associated Press
Sometimes it takes the New York Rangers time to get fired up. But it doesn't take long for their coach, Phil Watson, to lose his temper.

Thursday night, the fiery Watson blew his top and his Rangers blew an important 3-1 decision to the Boston Bruins.

The hectic game was one of three on the Thanksgiving night National Hockey League slate. The Detroit Red Wings defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2. The Montreal Canadiens edged the Chicago Black Hawks 2-1.

Four police officers had to escort the Rangers to their dressing room following the furor touched off when Watson threw a stick at Boston winger Jerry Toppazzini. The uproar started just after Norm Johnson scored the clinching goal with 25 seconds left in the game. Vic Stasiuk and Toppazzini scored the other Boston goals. Andy Bathgate got the Rangers only score early in the third period.

Gordie Howe scored his 397th and 398th NHL goals in the final seven minutes as Detroit came from behind.

'59 Baseball Opener Set For April 9

CHICAGO (AP) — The 1959 American League baseball season will have its earliest start in history and have more night games crammed into its schedule than ever before — 264.

The schedule, released today by League President Will Harridge, kicks off next year's campaign with Baltimore in the traditional presidential opener at Washington on April 9, a Thursday. This gives the season a weekend start instead of the usual Monday or Tuesday launching.

The opener on April 10 is the earliest since 1913, when President Woodrow Wilson tossed out the first ball to the late Clark Griffith, then Washington manager, and touched off the starting round for all clubs.

Harridge said the early start makes way for more open dates and gives the schedule more flexibility for traveling and weather enforced make-up games.

The opening round will send Cleveland to Kansas City, Chicago to Detroit and Boston to New York. These three-game series will end with single contests Sunday, April 12. After the April 9 opener, Baltimore remains at Washington but skips the next day and concludes the series with a Sunday doubleheader.

Question and Answer

Q—Who was the real founder of the Red Cross?

A—Jean Henri Dunant, a Swiss citizen. In 1859, he organized a local mercy group to care for wounded soldiers, and later worked for an international society.

Q—How did the White Mountains get their name?

A—They were so called because the bare rock peaks reflect gleaming flashes of sunlight.

Q—How many times has the Post Office issued a stamp with the picture of the White House?

A—Only three times. The first was issued in 1938.

Q—When was the coining of eagles or $10 gold pieces discontinued?

A—The 1933 eagle is the last United States gold coin struck that can be legally held by collectors. It is rather rare and obtainable only at a steep premium.

Youngstown Man Withdraws As Candidate for Dems' Chief

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Charles J. Carney of Youngstown withdrew today as candidate for majority leader in the Ohio Senate, "in the interest of party unity." That left the field clear for Frank W. King of Toledo, choice of Gov.-elect Michael V. DiSalle.

Carney's announcement came a few hours before the Senate Democrats, who numbered 20, assembled here for a party caucus.

Carney issued a statement saying, "I am voluntarily withdrawing from the race for majority leader of the state Senate. I am doing this for the purpose of party unity."

"It appears that Sen. Frank W. King of Toledo will be our leader. I know he will do a good job. I pledge my sincere co-operation to him and to Gov. DiSalle, to the end that the platform of the Democratic Party will be enacted into law."

"I thank the many senators who bled support to my candidacy and urge them to work in unity or the purpose of a better state."

Last Monday the Carney back-ers met here in the home of Ray-

T. Miller Sr., Democratic chairman of Cuyahoga County. There were reports that Carney could count on 10 votes, one short of the necessary majority.

Sen. Fred Harter of Akron, who had been mentioned as a dark horse candidate, previously had announced he would not run. Another senator considered as a possible compromise choice was Edward H. Dell of Middletown.

Sen. Ed Witmer of Canton was expected to place King's name in nomination.

Both King and Carney are union members. King is a bricklayer, but works as an instructor of apprentices for the Toledo Board of Education. Carney is a staff representative of the United Steel workers Union.

KISSES WIFE, IS HOSPITALIZED

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—William Rittel sneaked up on his wife Lora Faye while she was peeling potatoes and kissed her. She grabbed him, forgetting she had a knife in her right hand. Rittel was hospitalized with a stab wound in the left shoulder. He'll recover.

RECEIVE TROOP FLAG — Boy Scout Troop 101, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 892, was presented its troop flag from the Gold Star Auxiliary recently. There are 25 boys in the newly-formed troop. A group of the boys are shown above kneeling in front of the flag. Those standing are (l. to r.) Assistant Scoutmaster Glen Hoobler, Scoutmaster Glenn McLaughlin and Mrs. Robert Talbot, president of the Auxiliary.

Counting of Alaskan Vote Resumes Today

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The counting of votes from Tuesday's Alaska general election resumed today after a Thanksgiving recess. The new ballots were expected to add more weight to the Democratic landslide.

The new state's two Senate seats, one House seat and the Alaska governorship went to Democrats and Democrats took absolute control of the 60-member, bicameral Legislature.

E. L. (Bob) Bartlett, Alaska's nonvoting delegate to Congress for the last 14 years, easily outdistanced two rivals for one Senate seat.

When the counting was closed off Wednesday night with 213 of 287 precincts in, Bartlett had 29,888 votes to 5,405 for Republican R. E. Aobertson and 414 for independent Keith Capper.

The other Senate seat went to Ernest Gruening, a former territorial governor who beat back another former governor of Alaska, Mike Stepovich, by a vote of 19,017 to 17,084 with 213 precincts counted.

William Egan, a Valdez merchant, won the governorship over the GOP's John Butrovich Jr., 21,565 votes to 12,553.
